TOWN TALES AND TATTLE.

Harry Phillips is carrying in his pocket this week a programme leaf giving the "star" cast of "The Rivais," as it was produced at Wallack's Theatre, at the corner of Broome street and Broadway. In 1856. Being exhibited to a Says the Superintendency of number of professional people in the office of Wempss Henderson yesterday this interesting souvenir—especially interesting just now—fur-nished material for a spirited controversy respecting the relative merits of the old star cast and the new one.

Sir Anthony Absolute of Mr. W. R. Blake in 1856 closely approached the author's ideal. Captain Absolute was Wallack himself, down on the programme as "Mr. Lester." Mr. H. B. Phillips was the Luclus O'Trigger, Mr. John Byott played Faulkland, while Mr. Charles Wolcott gave the New Yorkers a Bob Acres which they bear in mind to this day. Mr. George Holland, father of the Hollands of the present, played David, Mrs. Hoey was the Julia, Mrs. Jorganon the Lydia Languish, Mrs. Vernon Mary Gannon the Lydia Languish, Mrs. Vernon Mary Gannon the Lydia Languish, Mrs. Vernon the Mrs. Malaprop and Mrs. H. B. Phillips the Lacy on the bills of 1856.

The only member of "The Rivals" cast of 1856 now living are H. B. Phillips and Mrs. Hocy.
